

Intentions of Recommended Exam [Sections]

Section 1: Dialogue Completion

Aligned with English Communication I and II, this section evaluates candidates' ability to comprehend conversational contexts and select appropriate responses. It assesses pragmatic competence and the use of natural English expressions in everyday communication, including language functions such as agreement and disagreement.

Section 2: Vocabulary in Context

Aligned with English Communication I and II, this section assesses candidates' lexical knowledge and their ability to infer word meanings within specific sentence contexts. It emphasizes the accurate understanding and application of vocabulary appropriate to communicative situations.

Section 3: Grammar and Sentence Construction

Aligned with English Communication I and II, this section measures candidates' command of English grammar and syntax. It requires accurate application of grammatical rules in sentence completion and construction tasks to ensure precision and clarity in written expression.

Section 4: Reading Comprehension and Data Interpretation

Aligned with English Communication I and II, this section evaluates candidates' ability to comprehend written texts and interpret information presented in graphical or tabular form. It further develops logical reasoning, critical analysis, and information synthesis skills.

Section 5: Long Reading Comprehension

Aligned with English Communication I and II, this section assesses candidates' deep reading comprehension, vocabulary application, and contextual analysis through passage-based questions. It examines the ability to process and interpret complex texts while understanding logical structures and paragraph relationships.